

Tailored ACC cover for self-employed people and non-PAYE shareholder-employees

ACC CoverPlus Extra is the flexible alternative to ACC CoverPlus which enables you to negotiate your level of lost earnings cover.¹ That way you know exactly what you'll receive if you're injured and can't work – and it doesn't matter whether the injury is work related.

At a glance

- ACC CoverPlus Extra is available to all self-employed and non-PAYE shareholder-employees who work 30 hours or more per week – and to part-timers whose earnings exceed the ACC CoverPlus Extra minimum² (which changes each year).
- You negotiate your level of lost earnings cover.
- You receive 100% of this lost earnings cover (less tax) if you can't work because of an injury, starting one week after your injury. This stays the same even if your business continues to generate income during your time off work or you return to work part-time.
- You can opt for Lower Levels of Weekly Compensation (LLWC) which offers a lower levy rate because weekly compensation will reduce if your business continues to generate income during your time off work or you return to work part-time.
- You don't have to prove loss of earnings when you make a claim.
- You have access to medical and work-related help as part of your ACC CoverPlus Extra policy.

Who qualifies?

ACC CoverPlus Extra is a great option for self-employed people and non-PAYE shareholder-employees:

- if you work 30 hours or more, or if you work part time and earn an income that's above the ACC CoverPlus Extra minimum (which changes every year)
- if your income fluctuates from year to year
- if your personal income is not a true reflection of your actual earnings. For example, you might split your income with a partner or spouse, or take advantage of options to reduce your tax
- if your business would continue generating income if you were injured and couldn't work
- if you are starting out in your own business and don't have an income history
- if you want a guaranteed level of lost earnings compensation.
